Glacier Skywalk Wins Prestigious 2016 Governor General's Medal in Architecture

JASPER - The Royal Architectural Institute of Canada (RAIC) and the Canada Council for the Arts announced the recipients of the 2016 Governor General's Medals in Architecture. The biennial awards celebrate outstanding design in recently completed projects by Canadian architects. Brewster Travel Canada's Glacier Skywalk is among the 12 recipients of this prestigious award.

"It is a great honour and privilege for the Glacier Skywalk to be nationally recognized for its incredible architecture and brilliant engineering, said Dave McKenna, President of Brewster Travel Canada. "We are very proud to see the Glacier Skywalk project receive the Governor General's Medal in Architecture along with our talented partners at Sturgess Architecture, RJC Engineering and PCL Construction."

Now open for its third summer, the Glacier Skywalk is a model of visual delight and unparalleled thrills in Jasper National Park.

"The recipients of the Governor General's Medals in Architecture have distinguished themselves as visionary Canadian architects," said his excellency the Right Honourable David Johnston, Governor General of Canada. "They have designed spaces where communities are forged, memories are enshrined and identity is created in built form. Few architects are able to realize their philosophies so fully in practice and in such diversity of project type and geography."
